JOB OPENING: WordPress Developer

We have an immediate opening for either a part-time or full-time WordPress Developer. The primary responsibilities of this position include:

- Taking Photoshop PSD files and associated design materials for client projects and converting them into working, breathing WordPress templates/websites.
- Developing custom code and technical solutions for Lindell Media internal projects and web properties
- Occasionally assisting with technical customer support for web or plugin issues.

The skills required for this position are as follows:

- Must have a background in computer science or have equivalent real-world experience working with PHP, WordPress, CSS, HTML, and JS - recent graduates are welcome to apply.
- Must understand responsive web design and how to modify a desktop theme to also display properly on mobile devices.
- Should be familiar with the latest web technologies such as SASS, SCSS, React, NodeJS, etc.
- Must have experience creating and implementing WordPress plugins and themes
- Must have experience with setting up, configuring, and utilizing WordPress. If you have your own WordPress website, that's ideal.
- Preference will be given to candidates who have contributed to open-source projects, or have worked on their own projects (send us your GitHub link if you have).

This is a remote position (i.e. work from home or coffee shops), but candidates will be expected to meet in person at least once a week in the Chilliwack area.

Please submit a resume, along with a few paragraphs describing why you'd like the position, to jobs@lindellmedia.com. Also please include salary or compensation expectations. Only local candidates will be considered - please no agencies or outsourcing firms.
